New College Pool Opens on Schedule

Bridgewater College's swimming pool is finally a reality. "We were talking about building a college pool when I was a student in 1920," remarked an alumnus recently.

"It's an absolutely beautiful, outstanding facility," says Peggy Courtney, pool director and swim instructor. "A lot of thought has been put into the design of the pool," she adds.

And it is the design of the pool that makes it so spectacular. The pool is 25 meters long and 45 feet wide with six lanes. The depth ranges from four to fourteen feet. There are two spring boards, a three meter and a one meter. The pool has underwater surface agitators, recessed lighting and an underwater observation window.

The feature which makes the pool unique in this region is the moveable floor. The floor of the shallow end, an area 45' by 40', can be raised or lowered to any depth. The floor can be brought up level with the surface so that wheelchairs or disabled persons can easily be placed onto it and lowered into the water for therapy or exercise. The pool depth may also be adjusted at a very shallow level for children's swim classes or for exercise classes.

The pool has drawn a great deal of interest from the community as well as the student body. At this time, plans are being made for the use of the pool, dividing the time among classes, recreational, community and therapeutic uses.

"We've been approached by all kinds of groups," says Ms. Courtney, "homes for the aged, Multiple Sclerosis Society and recreational groups, which we'll be trying to schedule. Right now our first priority is putting together a lifeguard staff large enough to keep the pool open as much as we're going to have to in order to meet all these needs and requests."

During the fall term, three swim classes are being taught, one Life Saving class and two beginning swimming classes.

There are also some on-campus interest groups who want to begin synchronized swimming, water polo and spring board diving.

The college is not working on putting together a competition swim team this year, though that is certainly a future goal. "It's a great pool for competition," says Courtney. "Of course, we haven't had any official timings yet, but the pools having a washover system like this one are notoriously fast pools."

The pool is also an excellent facility for spring board diving. It is equipped with Dura Maxiflex boards, which Ms. Courtney describes as "the best boards available."

As a teaching facility, the pool is also well-equipped and constructed. "The underwater observation window is an excellent way to teach competitive swimmers to do flip-turns, something quite difficult to see from the surface," notes Courtney. "It's also a good way to observe stroke mechanics," she adds.

Ms. Courtney praised the time and thought put into the design of the pool and notes, "It is a credit to those who spent time and effort working on it. It is well adapted for therapy and recreation."

The pool is one of the major projects of the First Century Completion Fund, the drive to raise 8 million dollars by the end of the college's Centennial year in June, 1981.

Class Agents at work.

The 1980-81 Class Agent Signing Day at Bridgewater College was held Saturday, September 21. Twenty-seven out of some 70 class agents were on hand to start the enormous task of signing thousands of personal letters. "Each class agent sends out a personal appeal to their classmates for support of Bridgewater's educational programs," reported Garth A. Mills, the college's Assistant Director of Development for Alumni Affairs and Annual Giving. "It is a tremendous effort on behalf of the class agents; it truly attests to their love and faith in Bridgewater College," he went on to say.

Mr. Ed Young, Chairman of the Alumni Gifts Committee, stated Saturday, "This year's goal was set at $250,000 by the committee. As we near the end of our First Century Completion Fund we must work very hard to accomplish our goal." Our class agent program has been highly effective in educating people to the financial needs of the college. Last year's goal of $210,000 was nearly met; an estimated $207,000 was donated to the college during last year's campaign.

The 1980-81 Alumni Gifts Campaign kick-off. Class Agents from 1918 to 1980 attended the annual Class Agents Signing Day in Kline Campus Center.

This is a newsletter of the Bridgewater publication series (064-960) published four times a year, October, December, March, and June, by Bridgewater College, Bridgewater, Virginia 22812. Bridgewater College is a member of the Council for Advancement and Support of Education. Second class postage paid at Bridgewater, Va. Judith S. Ruby, Editor, Volume 56, Number 1, October, 1980.

Dr. Hill Receives NSF Grant

Dr. L. Michael Hill, Professor of Biology, received a $1,667 research grant from the National Science Foundation.

Dr. Hill will use the grant to fund research activities at the Bermuda Biological Station in St. George's, Bermuda, for three weeks in the spring of 1981.

Dr. Hill will study the reproductive biology of a plant in the Iris family, the Bermuda blue-eyed grass, a plant found only in Bermuda. Data compiled by Dr. Hill will be compared with data on related species found in the northeastern United States.

Dr. Hill has been a member of the Bridgewater College faculty since 1972.

Mrs. Olive S. Bowman Dies

Mrs. Olive Smith Bowman, former professor and wife of Dr. Warren D. Bowman, President Emeritus of Bridgewater College, died July 18, 1980.

Mrs. Olive Smith Bowman

Mrs. Bowman, a graduate of Longwood College, was an assistant professor of mathematics from 1954 to 1961 and from 1966 to 1970. Dr. Bowman served as the college President from 1949 to 1964.

She is survived by her husband who resides at the Bridgewater Home in Bridgewater; three daughters, Dr. Helen Bowman Moore, '53, Mrs. Ruth B. Bowman, '58, and Jean Bowman Worfolk; and one son, Dr. Warren Bowman, Jr., '50.

A scholarship fund has been established. Any contributions to this fund should be sent to the Director of Development at the college. Contributors should specify that they are giving to the Warren D. and Olive S. Bowman Scholarship Fund.

Dr. Kline Addresses Faculty

"For too long, the negative attitude about education has persisted," said Dr. Caryl M. Kline, as she addressed the faculty and staff gathered for the opening of Bridgewater's 101st academic session in September. Mrs. Kline emphasized the need in modern society for not only education but also conviction, as she referred her listeners to the Oliver Wendell Holmes quote, "The motivating force in life must not be fear, but faith,"

Dr. Kline, currently Secretary of the Navy's Advisory Commission on Education and Training, attributes the negativism toward education to many factors. "This didn't just happen," she said. "We were too comfortable. We were timid when we should have been courageous; we were quiet when we should have been outspoken."

America's need, according to Kline, can be fulfilled through quality education. Education should be a continuous and on-going process. Mrs. Kline urged educators to look to the future rather than to the past, and to provide a basic education which is not terminated when the student graduates. "We must prepare," said Kline, "for the life-long education of every single person."

"A clear perception of goals" was urged by Dr. Kline, as she advocated the breadth and depth of the liberal arts education. Dr. Kline called for a return to the basic, classical education, but also cautioned against "lock-step" education. "We want creativity," she said, as she made her appeal for a strong classical educational background.

As she continued in her "Education for Leadership" seminar, Dr. Kline addressed the importance of being able to read, write and use vocabulary skillfully. "Students who are educated for leadership must be able to communicate orally and in writing. We must become an oral society," Dr. Kline said. Dr. Kline emphasized that "education must be constant," and that educators are faced with students who have spent more hours watching television than they have studying in a classroom as they enter college. Students often come to a college with a weak written vocabulary, and Dr. Kline sought to remind faculty members of the crucial importance of mastering written as well as oral language as an absolute necessity to success and leadership in today's world.

Essay exams, according to Dr. Kline, are the best suited for use in a college classroom. "The essay forces students to organize and know main ideas and thoughts," she advocated. Dr. Kline believes that schools should return to teaching "the kind of verbal ability which means we say what we mean."

"The first obligation in training students for graduation and leadership," says Kline, "is to teach students how to handle language so it says what they want it to and so it can be easily comprehended." She added that students must also learn to "analyze what they read" and "to make judgments on the basis of their analysis."

Dr. Kline emphasized the need in our society for convictions, and spoke of the importance of getting involved in the events of society. She asked faculty members to demonstrate to their students that an "absolute imperative in American society is to have convictions, and these convictions must lead to action." Dr. Kline noted that today's students and tomorrow's leaders must believe in the effectiveness of writing to senators, congressmen or ethics committees, and the importance of playing a really active role in democracy.

"The proof of a college education is not getting to commencement, but what you contribute," Dr. Kline concluded, "and to make that contribution valuable, it must be coupled with integrity, intellectual and moral honesty."

B.C. Staff Adds Eleven

Dr. William Miracle

Garth A. Mills

Margaret J. Courtney

Several appointments to the Bridgewater College faculty and staff were announced this summer by Dr. Wayne F. Geisert, President.

Dr. William D. Miracle, previously dean of students at Suomi College in Houghton, Michigan, became the Dean for Student Development at Bridgewater on August 1.

He replaces Richard S. Ferris, who held the position for three years before being named vice president for development at Chicago Theological Seminary this past spring.

Miracle earned his bachelor's degree from Newberry College and his master's and doctorate from the University of Georgia. He and his wife Andrea have one daughter, Molly.

Anna Mae Myers, who chaired Bridgewater's Home Economics Department 1963-78 returned to that position on a part-time basis on September 1.

She succeeds Mary L. Rushton, who taught home ec several years and became chairman when Miss Myers left two years ago. Mrs. Rushton has moved to Oklahoma to attend school.

Also joining the home ec department on a part-time basis is Ann M. Klotz, whose primary field is foods and nutrition.

Mrs. Klotz earned a bachelor's degree from Virginia Tech and a master's from Kansas State University.

Margaret J. Courtney has been named

Instructor of P.E. and Director of Swimming for the new pool which opened this fall.

Miss Courtney received a bachelor's degree from Delaware Valley College and a master's degree from the University of Georgia. She comes to Bridgewater with extensive experience in the teaching of swimming.

Dr. Hugh N. Emerson has assumed the position of Professor of Business Administration. He previously held that same position at Wheeling College.

Emerson earned a bachelor's degree from Johns Hopkins University, a master's from Wharton School of Finance and a doctorate in economics from the University of Pennsylvania.

In addition to teaching, he has also worked in private industry.

Mr. David C. Huffman, who graduated with honors from Bridgewater in 1976, has joined the faculty as an Instructor of Economics. Mr. Huffman holds a master's degree in economics from the University of Virginia. Mr. Huffman comes to Bridgewater from Washington, D.C. where he was employed as a Research Associate at Lawrence Johnson & Associates, Inc.

Mrs. Barbara M. Roberts will be teaching part-time in the English Department. She holds a B.A. degree from the University of Texas and an M.A. degree from James Madison University.

Miss Lynn K. Hoff will be teaching a course in special education during the winter and spring terms. Miss Hoff is a 1976 graduate of Bridgewater and holds an M.Ed. degree in special education from James Madison University.

Mrs. Lu'Dean Withers will teach the course "Art in the Elementary School" during the fall term. She is a graduate of Furman University and has had extensive teaching experience.

On August 1, Judith S. Ruby joined the development and public relations staff as Director of Public Information. She replaces Dean Kinley, who worked in the development office two years before rejoining the Daily News-Record staff.

Mrs. Ruby earned a bachelor's degree from Radford University and a master's from Hollins College.

Another addition to the development staff is Garth A. Mills, who became Assistant Director of Development for Annual Giving and Alumni Affairs on August 1. He replaces Ruth M. Ferris, who held that post for a year before returning with her husband to Chicago.

Mills received a bachelor's degree in International Relations from Whittier College in California, where he was named a John Greenleaf Whittier Academic scholar. He formerly worked at Montgomery Ward in California and was director of the Elementary Alternative Education program for Harrisonburg schools.

Heintzleman Heads Alumni Association

"What I'd like to get across to our alumni is a spirit of enthusiastic positiveness towards Bridgewater," says Jack W. Heintzleman, '56, who became president of the Alumni Association on July 1. He adds, "I want our alumni to feel good towards talking about Bridgewater College, thinking about it, and to see what there is possible to do to make Bridgewater College an even better educational institution for the future students of the college."

Jack, a business and economics major when at Bridgewater, went on to graduate from Union Theological Seminary in Richmond. Jack and his wife Nancy, a fifth grade teacher, live in Charlottesville, where he is pastor of Meadows Presbyterian Church. They have three children: Pam, 19, is a college sophomore; Andy, 17, and Karen, 15, both attend Albemarle High School.

Jack, who once served as the president of his local alumni chapter, hopes to generate a maximum amount of participation from alumni, parents and friends. "I'm really interested in Bridgewater College and feel that the alumni are the college's greatest resource," he says.

He is busy making plans for his communications to reach all alumni. "Out of over 6700 alumni families," he adds, "we have a tremendous reservoir of potential which has been tapped with varying degrees of success." Jack's hope is that through the efforts of the Alumni Association tangible goals can be established that the alumni can work towards for the good of the college. "The Alumni Association's most important contribution will be a positive influence in establishing those goals," he adds.

In order to establish a more viable communications network with the alumni, Jack is currently planning a newsletter which will regularly go out to the members of the alumni board and to the chapter officers. The newsletter will address various chapter activities and generate increased chapter participation. He hopes to involve as many people as possible during his year as alumni president.

Jack views his role as that of liaison between the college alumni office and the chapters. He looks forward to working with Mr. Garth Mills, who recently became Bridgewater's Assistant Director of Development for Alumni Affairs.

Jack emphasizes that he is always open to suggestions from alumni about how he might go about keeping the lines of communication open. "The really important issue here is communication," he says. "To know how to make use of this whole reservoir of leadership available to us at Bridgewater is sometimes difficult, but we can do it."

President's Dinner Planned

Members of the families of former Presidents of Bridgewater College will be the guests of honor at the President's Dinner on November 7.

During Bridgewater's Centennial celebration, special emphasis will be placed on the college's founders, leaders and history at this year's banquet, hosted by President and Mrs. Wayne F. Geisert.

Dr. Edward K. Ziegler will be the evening's guest speaker. Dr. Ziegler, author of twelve books, served as the editor of Brethren Life and Thought for 25 years before his retirement in 1980.

Direct descendants, immediate family, and brothers or sisters of Bridgewater's first families who have not been contacted about the dinner should notify the President's office of their current address.

The President's Dinner, held in Kline Campus Center, is given annually for those supporters of the college who have contributed $500 or more during the previous fiscal year.

Churches of Brethren Hold B.C. Sunday

"Christian Higher Education" was the theme around which services for Bridgewater College Sunday, held September 21, 1980, were structured. Church members were encouraged to explore the role of the Christian in carrying forward the torch of learning.

Bridgewater College Sunday, a part of the College's Centennial observance, was held in many churches within the six Districts which support the college as a part of an effort to keep the churches acquainted with the college, its programs, and plans. Some of these churches invited guest speakers into their pulpits for the day. Dr. Wayne F. Geisert, President, delivered the sermon at the Harrisonburg Church of the Brethren as a part of its special observance.

Tracy Keeler Budd, '80, designed an original bulletin cover for use by the churches on B.C. Sunday. Copies of the bulletin were made available to all churches who requested them.

Two ministers of the Church of the Brethren, Dr. Robert L. Sherfy and Rev. David L. Holl, aided local churches in planning their services for the Sunday. Dr. Sherfy, now retired, is the former pastor of the Bridgewater Church of the Brethren. Rev. Holl is currently minister to the Ninth Street Church of the Brethren in Roanoke, Virginia. Rev. Holl was formerly the Director of Church Relations for Bridgewater College.

Dr. Sherfy and Rev. Holl provided a suggested service outline, and ministers and lay speakers were given points and quotations which they had the option of using in their sermons.

Numerous churches notified the College of their intention to participate in Bridgewater College Sunday and ordered the bulletins designed for the day.

Hersch Crash Victim

Harold H. Hersch, who served one term on the Bridgewater Board of Trustees and as president of the Alumni Association, died in a plane crash June 28, 1980. Mr. Hersch was an alumnus of Bridgewater College and was serving as Chairman of the College's Estate Planning Committee at the time of his death.

Born in Greene County, Virginia, Mr. Hersch grew up there and on a dairy farm in Manassas. He graduated magna cum laude from Bridgewater in 1951, and received a law degree from George Washington University in 1954.

Before beginning his general law practice in Manassas, Mr. Hersch had been a reporter and editorial writer for the weekly Manassas Messenger. He was also a commercial flight instructor and had operated a crop-spraying business in the late 1940s and early 1950s.

Mr. Hersch was a former director of the Manassas Kiwanis Club and the Greater Manassas Chamber of Commerce. He was a charter member of the Manassas Junior Chamber of Commerce. He was a former president of the Prince William County Bar Association and the Dixie Rebels Flying Club. He belonged to the American, Northern Virginia, and Virginia Trial Lawyers associations.

He is survived by two sons, Harold Huntley and Stephen D., his parents, Mabel Harley, '23, and Orville Hersch, '23; two brothers, David Hersch, '64, and Kurtz Hersch, '61; two sisters, Miriam Hersch Weaver, '51, and Dr. Lauree Hersch Meyer, '55.

The family is establishing the Harold H. Hersch Memorial Scholarship Fund at Bridgewater College. Anyone wishing to make a contribution to this fund should send it to the Development Office at the College. Contributions should specify that they are for the Hersch Fund.

Centennial Slide Show

The Centennial tape-slide show, assembled to depict Bridgewater's history and current programs, is now available.

The show includes an introduction by President Wayne F. Geisert followed by an illustrated history of the college from its 1880 founding to the present. Slides of the earliest campus scenes have been made from the college's photo archives by Ronald Cox, '59, who also photographed much of the current campus for the show.

The college history is narrated by Brydon M. DeWitt, '65, Director of Development at Bridgewater, and Violet S. Cox, '59, Chairman of the Centennial Committee.

Background music includes period music as well as selections from the Moeller organ in Cole Hall. The sound track for the show was prepared at the WSWA studios with the aid of Ellsworth Neff, '64, who is the engineer at the station.

Churches and groups interested in using the tape-slide show should contact Brydon DeWitt at the Bridgewater College Office of Development.

Parents' Day Planned

Bridgewater College annually honors the parents of students during the festivities of Parents' Day. This year, Parents' Day will be held on November 1, 1980. A full schedule of activities is planned for the day which is to be shared by the parents with their son or daughter.

The day will begin with a morning registration, and a reception during which parents have an opportunity to meet faculty members. At 10:30 a.m. there will be an assembly during which the College Concert Band and Chorale will perform. Parents are then invited to lunch with their son or daughter in the Kline Campus Center.

The highlight of the afternoon will be the football game with Washington and Lee, beginning at 1:30 p.m. on Jopson Field.

Following dinner in the Campus Center, the Pinion Players' production of "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown" will be presented at 8:00 in Cole Hall.

Sabbatical Brings "Shock of Recognition"

"I was not pursuing my past when I went to Germany," says Dr. James Mumper, Chairman of Bridgewater's History Department.

Dr. Mumper polished up the German he had learned years earlier in graduate school and headed for Germany during a sabbatical last spring.

"When I left Germany in the fall of 1945, I thought the chances for democracy there were very dismal," he says, "so I went back to see—and it appears to be a tremendous success."

He did not go to Europe to relive or reminisce about any of his World War II experiences. He was there to study the present, not the past.

However, he found that he could not ignore the "irresistible lure" of the city of Wurzburg on the River Main, a city he had helped the 42nd Infantry Rainbow Division to capture in April of 1945.

"I spent 110 days in active combat in the fall of '44 and winter and spring of '45 attached to Patton's 3rd Army—I didn't want to visit any of those old battlefields. Wurzburg was the only place I wanted to see. I was fascinated, curious."

Before he actually made the trip, Dr. Mumper had made the decision to visit Wurzburg several times, only to change his mind and cancel his plans.

On the first trip to Wurzburg, he had been a 23-year-old infantryman who was frightened, appalled by the destruction, and shocked by the events taking place around him.

Returning 35 years later, after years of studying, teaching and getting a perspective on the events of World War II, Dr. Mumper experienced what he describes as a "shock of recognition."

He returned to a spot "where we very nearly lost our lives 35 years ago." He revisited the street by the Old University in Wurzburg where he and some others of his company were ambushed by German soldiers, but this time, he "crossed the street unafraid, to sit on a bench and stare at the scene in disbelief."

Dr. Mumper came away from Wurzburg unafraid and reassured. The city is

Internship Pays Off for B.C. Senior

Bridgewater College senior Mark Kidd says he will probably be studying harder this fall than many of his friends will. The reason—Mark's life now has direction. Not that he's been wandering around lost—he hasn't. But now he is sure that the career he's chosen is one for which he is suited and one that he will find enjoyable and satisfying.

"I liked the whole thing," says Mark of the career internship he participated in during the summer in the Harrisonburg law firm of Hoover, Hoover, Penrod and Davenport.

Mark became interested in the law as a career through his experience in high school debate, and has played with the idea of being a lawyer ever since, "but it was the internship that clinched it," says Mark.

Bridgewater has had an internship program for several years. The program is intended to help students understand the world of work through actual on-the-job experience. Open only to juniors and seniors, the internship allows the students to see first-hand both the positive and the negative aspects of a particular vocation, while earning college credit.

Of course, not all internships end with a decision like Mark's. Some people find they are not suited for a particular field. "That," according to Director of Internships Dale E. Mekeel, "is an experience that is equally valuable. It is much better to find one is unsuited for a particular vocation as an undergraduate intern than as a new graduate two or three weeks into a new job."

Mark Kidd and Dave Penrod pose in law offices of Hoover, Hoover, Penrod and Davenport.

As a result of his intern experience, Mark Kidd is busy filling out applications to law school, reviewing for the law school entrance exams, and studying for his classes so that his grade point average will remain strong.

Mark was able to see the realities of a career in law. His summer had some exciting and interesting moments. The highlight of his experience came during a jury trial when he was sent out to track down a surprise witness. He produced the witness who perhaps changed the outcome of the trial.

Mark also had the thrill of hearing one of his arguments used in court. During an informal discussion of a case, Mark had offered an argument which he was quite pleasantly surprised to hear later as a closing argument to the jury.

"It's not always as exciting as that, though," says Mark, who also spent time typing, filing, running errands, and doing some of the less glamorous tasks that also have to be done in a law firm.

"One of the best things about it was that I got to visit every court in Harrisonburg. I even got to go to an in-chambers argument with Federal District Judge Turk," Mark reports, feeling that learning his way around was a valuable experience.

As he watched the partners in the law firm in action, especially Mr. Dave Penrod, with whom he worked most closely, Mark began to see the appeal of a career in law. "You're always working to take care of people's problems," he says. "You're working with a purpose. It's often possible to circumvent a problem before it gets out of hand."

Mark values his summer experience; he got to see the internal process rather than be just an outside observer. "The internship helps in the decision-making process; it's a learning experience. I loved it." Mark, who worked part-time at a swimming pool, noted, "When that was gone and life-guarding was left, I got very bored."

Bridgewater Receives V.F.I.C. Funds for 1980

Bridgewater College, along with eleven other Virginia colleges, is the recipient of a share of a record $2.1 million distributed by the Virginia Foundation for Independent Colleges.

Bridgewater has received $151,655 as its share of the 1980 V.F.I.C. Fund. The portion each of the colleges receives is based on the average full-time undergraduate enrollment for the past five years.

The V.F.I.C. is a joint fund-raising organization established for the benefit of 12 major, privately supported Virginia colleges. Governed by a board of the presidents of the 12 colleges and 35 businessmen, the V.F.I.C. annually receives contributions from business, industry, and private sources.

Other V.F.I.C. member colleges are: Emory & Henry College, Hampden-Sydney College, Hollins College, Lynchburg College, Mary Baldwin College, Randolph-Macon College, Randolph-

Macon Woman's College, University of Richmond, Roanoke College, Sweet Briar College, and Washington and Lee University.

The Jessie Ball duPont Fund of Jacksonville, Fla., underwrites the administrative and operating expenses of the V.F.I.C. to insure that the full amount of every dollar contributed to the fund is actually shared by the member colleges.

First Century Completion Fund

"We are confident," says President Wayne F. Geisert, "that if we work together, we can meet the $8,000,000 goal and maintain Bridgewater's leadership in education."

The 1980-81 fiscal year is the final year for Bridgewater's First Century Completion Fund, the largest development project ever undertaken by the college. The program has been a very successful one for Bridgewater, and the college has made significant strides toward reaching the 8 by 80 goal established in 1973. At the end of the fiscal year in June 1980, $6.2 million had been raised.

Bridgewater has realized many benefits from the 8 by 80 effort in addition to the financial ones. The program has involved successfully a wider range of constituents and has brought about an increase in alumni participation.

The primary objective of raising $8 million in cash, pledges, testamentaries, and life income plans is a challenging one, but also a goal that is within the realm of possibility for the college.

The Case Statement of the First Century Completion Fund which was developed as the result of careful study at the beginning of the project, addresses the necessity of preserving an "institution of proven value" and creating "the foundation for greater service to a new century."

The College also recognizes the need for "continuing modernization and completion of a physical plant" in order to provide an adequate environment for teaching and learning.

Of the $8 million, $2.8 million was earmarked for the educational program and current operations. Twenty-five percent of the income for educational and general expenses of the college is provided by contributions, special grants, endowment income, and miscellaneous earnings.

Another major objective of the First Century Completion Fund is to increase the endowment of the college to $4 million to insure the future security of the institution.

President Geisert says, "We are pleased with the success of the program and with the large number of people who are so vitally interested in the college. But," he adds, "we still have a considerable amount to raise during this final year."

B.C. Receives Kresge Challenge

The Trustees of the Kresge Foundation have approved a challenge grant of $100,000 toward the funding of the college's new $1.2 million swimming pool addition to the Alumni Gymnasium.

In order to receive the grant, Bridgewater must raise money to complete the funding for the swimming pool by April 15, 1981. Approximately $789,000 of the $1,257,000 needed has been committed to the project, leaving a balance of $368,000 beyond the tentative commitment of the Kresge grant to be raised.

"We are delighted to receive the good news of the Kresge grant," says Bridgewater President Wayne F. Geisert. "It puts a premium on our efforts to complete the funding of the pool project during the next six months. Clearly, we must turn to our alumni and other supportive friends for special help. I hope that we will all want to raise our sights and increase our contributions this year to assist in claiming the grant."

"Hopefully," Dr. Geisert adds, "many of us will also want to pledge additional support beyond this fiscal year; that is, for the period between now and June 30, 1983."

The Kresge Foundation was created solely by the personal gifts of Sebastian S. Kresge. Since 1924, appropriations of over $383 million have been made to institutions in the areas of higher education, health services, the arts, social welfare, and conservation.

Ground was broken for the new swimming pool on April 18, 1979, and the pool opened at the beginning of the academic year this September. A special feature of the pool is the floor that can be raised or lowered to any level to meet the needs of the handicapped, elderly, and the children of the community.

The pool is one of the major projects of the college's First Century Completion Fund, a drive to raise $8 million by the end of the Centennial year in June, 1981.

Bridgewater's Centennial Homecoming was an especially festive one.

Nearly 65 runners registered for the First Annual "5-K" Centennial Run. Daryl Metz won the three-mile race in 16:19. Steve Gardner, '76, came in second, and Jeff Heppard, '74, took third place. Mr. C. E. Kline, '34, won a special trophy for representing the earliest class in the run.

The women's field hockey team handed a 3-0 defeat to Randolph-Macon Women's College during a morning match.

Sports Outlook for 1980-81

by Curtiss Dudley '83

Football

Coach John Spencer began his 13th year as head football coach at Bridgewater this season. His biggest concern for the Eagles this year is how well they will be able to protect the quarterback from opponents' on-rushing defensive linemen. After having five offensive linemen lost to graduation it is easy to see Spencer's concern. Both offensively and defensively the Eagles are not big, but they are quick.

All-Old Dominion Athletic Conference quarterback and punter Duane Harrison, a senior from King George, Virginia, did not start until October 4, due to a foot injury. Harrison led the ODAC in passing with 1,155 yards and a 41.9 punting average in 1979. At the helm for the Eagles will be backup quarterback and senior Jeff Jones. Jones saw limited action last year, but directed the offense in four games during the '78 season.

Junior David Wellman of Richmond and sophomore Keith Schaefer of Colonial Beach will start in the tailback and fullback slots. Wellman broke his leg after rushing 95 yards and scoring three touchdowns in last year's season opener. Schaefer carried the ball 64 times for 272 yards, a 4.3 yard per carry average in '79.

Seniors Johnny Dwyer of Madison, Virginia and Joe Kunlo of King George, Virginia and junior Jeff Frock of Westminster, Maryland will share duties at flanker and split end. Dwyer was All-ODAC with 41 catches for 546 yards, while Kunlo pulled in 23 receptions for 406 yards and four touchdowns. Ronnie Abernathy, a sophomore from Appomattox will serve as tight-end. Senior Brian Fitzgerald of Raphine, Virginia and sophomore John Cole from Buena Vista are the only regular starters returning on the defensive line. Kevin Wholey, a senior cornerback from Stafford; Gerald Benjamin, a sophomore cornerback from Petersburg; and sophomore free safety Charley Gunter of Salem will round out the defensive backfield.

Field Hockey

Last year's field hockey success will be a hard act to follow for Coach Laura Mapp's 1980 squad. The 1979 edition finished second in the state, first in Region II, and among the top 16 of Division III schools in the nation with a 12-9-1 record.

Six varsity members were lost to graduation, however should be well compensated by nine new team members, including a sophomore transfer from the University of Delaware and another sophomore who did not play her freshman year. Sixteen players are returning from last year.

Injuries may hamper the season's success. Several players are nursing injuries from past seasons, including two returners who have had knee surgery within the past 10 months. Should everyone stay healthy, the team will have great speed and quickness.

The regular season will consist of 15 games, nine of which will be conference and eight home dates.

Volleyball

The past year may have been just a stepping stone for Coach Mary Frances Heishman's volleyball squad. Last year, with a record of 17-7, the ladies just missed the state crown and finished second. However, only three players have graduated and one transferred from the state runner-up team. This year may well be a very productive one.

Seven players will be returning with 5'9" height or better, and several freshmen also fit this category. The tallest returners include 5'11" Kim Stevens, a sophomore from Harrisonburg, Virginia and 5'11" Claudia Carter, a sophomore from Daleville, Virginia. Carter is also one of the leading servers on the team.

Senior Captain Cindy Clark of Buena Vista, Virginia and Lisa McDaniels, a 5'10" senior from Blacksburg, should play key roles in the season's outcome.

Cross Country

Fourteen cross country runners showed up for the first day of practice in preparation for the 1980 season. Coach Harry Jopson was well pleased with the turnout. Last year the Eagles finished fourth within the Old Dominion Athletic Conference, yet hope to move up a couple notches as top returning runners include Dwight Denlinger, Tom Gross and Pete Crouse. Kurt Ritchie, Dave Burtner and Pat Paul should also score well for the Eagles. A pair of promising new runners are freshmen Terry Lenny and Jimmy Nichols.

The ODAC meet will be held Saturday November 8 at Eastern Mennonite College.

Duane Harrison: A True Athlete

by Curtiss Dudley '83

Athletics at Bridgewater College competes on the Division III level. B.C. is noted more for its academics than its athletics; however, there is one particular high flying Eagle who has brought a bit of recognition to athletics at B.C. Duane Harrison is known not only throughout the state, but nationally as well.

Harrison is a true athlete who simply enjoys sportsmanlike competition. He could have competed at any collegiate level, yet chose to spend his college career at B.C., where no athletic scholarships are offered. Harrison's decision to attend B.C. has certainly pleased the coaching staff.

Harrison, a physical education major from King George, Virginia, competed in the Seventh NCAA Division III Track and Field Championships this past spring at North Central College in Naperville, Illinois. He finished fourth in the nation in long jump with a leap of 23'3½". He also would have finished no lower than eighth place in the 110 meter hurdles, but was forced out of the race by an injury.

Not only does Harrison run track at B.C., he also quarterbacks and punts for Coach John Spencer's football squad and played basketball and baseball.

In track Duane holds school records in the 110 meter hurdles, the long jump and the triple jump.

As well as holding a number of track records, Harrison unofficially led the nation in punting last year with a 41.9 yard punt average. He was named all ODAC quarterback and punter in '79.

"I'm looking forward to this year" said Harrison of this his senior year. Many expect and hope that this year will provide Duane his most productive and successful season.

Bittinger Article in Messenger

Dr. Emmert F. Bittinger, Professor of Sociology at Bridgewater College, published an article in the September 1980 issue of the MESSENGER, the official publication of the Church of the Brethren.

Dr. Bittinger's article, "Wilma Waybright: Minister of the Mountains," discusses Mrs. Waybright's 50 years as a minister of the Church of the Brethren in Eglon, West Virginia. She was licensed in 1930, only six years after the Brethren officially permitted licensing of women to preach.

Dr. Bittinger has been a member of the Bridgewater faculty since 1963.

B.C. to Complete Evaluation in 1981

Bridgewater College will be completing the final year of a two-year evaluation by the Southern Association of Schools and Colleges during the 1980-81 academic year.

Bridgewater was first accredited by the Southern Association in 1925. Member schools must be re-evaluated every ten years in order to maintain accreditation.

During the 1979-80 college year, faculty and administration engaged in a self-study. In this phase of the evaluation, the programs, policies, philosophies and objectives of individuals and the college as a whole were examined in depth.

Dr. Ben F. Wade, Executive Assistant to the President and chairman of Bridgewater's Evaluation Steering Committee, has announced the completion of the self-study.

During this year's evaluation, a team of educators, to be selected by the Southern Association in November, will visit the campus. During their visit in January or February, 1981, the visiting committee will assess what they feel to be the strengths and weaknesses of the academic program at Bridgewater.

Special Centennial Issue Next

In December, we'll publish a special souvenir issue of BRIDGEWATER—and, really, no one can write that issue as well as those who spent time at Bridgewater, or Blue Ridge College, Hebron Seminary, or Daleville. Send us your favorite college reminiscence. We're interested in hearing about all aspects of college life—the unforgettable prank, the prof who changed your life, your most memorable moment at B.C.

Clip this form and send it to us—add to it if your recollection won't fit. We're hoping to put together a Centennial issue that will bring back lots of fond memories to lots of alumni.

restored. He was still able to recognize the sites he had seen as bombed-out rubble 35 years ago, now looking much as they must have looked before Hitler began his drive for power. The city of Wurzburg has healed.

Dr. Mumper observed, "Mercedes-Benzenes now sped through the boulevard, old ladies (who must have lived through it all) now walked through the park which once seemed so ominous to us. I found it difficult," he says, "to convince myself that this was the very place."

"It is incomprehensible that I was ever involved in such terrible appalling destruction as that I saw in Wurzburg in 1945," he notes. But the destruction was neither complete nor permanent. There are still scars; "I looked for tell-tale chinks in the stone and concrete of the Old University and found many, plastered over for many years, but unmistakable."

The people of Wurzburg now welcome Americans and enjoy talking to them. The city is once again beautiful. A modern tourist brochure omits any reference to the events of WWII which took place there. World War II slips farther into the past each day. The boy of 23 has become a man beginning to put a war into perspective.
